

Summer Skies Poem by Jan Pollard

Swallows dip, swoop and dart
across the summer sky.

They use the air to lift their wings
and carry them up high.

Balloons will float when full of air
and kites when there is a breeze.

All colours, shapes and sizes
flying about the trees.

White clouds, fluffy clouds
floating across the sky.

Can you make out different shapes
as they sail by?
